Sustainable welfare
(Next Lisbon)

Digital Europe

Europe must become more innovative to create value and welfare.
Broadband is one of the important instruments in this process

Next Lisbon

Must focus on citizen's needs – sustainable welfare

Must move attention back to structural reform policies

Europe must constantly move up the value chain

Innovation is an important instrument and a culture of change must be created

Why broadband is important

The only way really to connect to the Internet

Provides nearly unlimited information capacity

Must be followed by developing e-skills

Should be content driven

Must be extended much more to public sector

Why broadband is important

From passive use to pro-active

We could need services that give a better overview of knowledge in different areas

Networking should be developed from personal life to professional

We need an Internal Market for knowledge!
